

presents

Science what?

Jeopardy is

- ▶ a famous quiz show where the participants have to guess the correct question.
- ▶ a game, played by three to five players at a time.
- ▶ your chance to enjoy free drinks and win awesome prizes!
- ▶ fun!

Credit

Food and drinks are sponsored by

d-fine

Credit

Food and drinks are sponsored by

d-fine

Awesome prizes sponsored by

d-fine

Rules I

- ▶ 3 to 5 players play at a time
- ▶ Questions in different categories, with difficulty 100 to 500
- ▶ At the beginning of a round, I will explain the categories and what we are looking for.
- ▶ The winner of the last questions gets to select the topic and difficulty of the next question
- ▶ The person that hits the buzzer first gets the right to answer

Rules II

- ▶ Quick: Buzzertest!
- ▶ Correct answer: Score +X00 points.
- ▶ Wrong answer: Score -X00 points.
- ▶ Person with the most points at the end of the game enters the final round (also: Lucky Loser).
- ▶ Bonus Field: Jeopardy Double (exclusive to the winner of the last question).

Example I

You choose a category: "Famous landmarks for 200, please."

Example I

You choose a category: "Famous landmarks for 200, please."

A: "This famous landmark is placed in the so called city of love."

Example I

You choose a category: "Famous landmarks for 200, please."

A: "This famous landmark is placed in the so called city of love."

Q: "What is the Eiffel Tower." Right! +200

Example I

You choose a category: "Famous landmarks for 200, please."

A: "This famous landmark is placed in the so called city of love."

Q: "What is the Eiffel Tower." Right! +200

A: "The Eiffel Tower." Wrong! -200

Example II

The winner of the last question choses: "History of science for 500, please."

Example II

The winner of the last question choses: "History of science for 500, please."

A: "This person gave his name for the yearly awarded, prestigious scientific prize. Apparently, he didn't like mathematics..."

Example II

The winner of the last question choses: "History of science for 500, please."

A: "This person gave his name for the yearly awarded, prestigious scientific prize. Apparently, he didn't like mathematics..."

A: "The Nobel Prize."

Example II

The winner of the last question choses: "History of science for 500, please."

A: "This person gave his name for the yearly awarded, prestigious scientific prize. Apparently, he didn't like mathematics..."

A: "The Nobel Prize." Wrong! -500

Example II

The winner of the last question choses: "History of science for 500, please."

A: "This person gave his name for the yearly awarded, prestigious scientific prize. Apparently, he didn't like mathematics..."

A: "The Nobel Prize." Wrong! -500

Q: "What is the Nobel Prize."

Example II

The winner of the last question choses: "History of science for 500, please."

A: "This person gave his name for the yearly awarded, prestigious scientific prize. Apparently, he didn't like mathematics..."

A: "The Nobel Prize." Wrong! -500

Q: "What is the Nobel Prize." Wrong! -500

Example II

The winner of the last question choses: "History of science for 500, please."

A: "This person gave his name for the yearly awarded, prestigious scientific prize. Apparently, he didn't like mathematics..."

A: "The Nobel Prize." Wrong! -500

Q: "What is the Nobel Prize." Wrong! -500

Q: "Who was Alfred Nobel." Right! +500

Who wants to play?

- ▶ 3 Qualification rounds, with 4 to 5 players each.
- ▶ 1 Final round, with the 3 winners and 1 to 2 Lucky Loser (highest score).

Questions?

No?

Good, because you will be the jury!